

OLD AGE IS A DISEASE

That May Be Overcome

Man Should Live to be 150 Years Old. Prime of Life at 80—Vigorous, Hale and Hearty at 100

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

Enables the Old to Enjoy the Sports of Youth

The scientist that discovered the formula of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey 50 years ago also discovered by experiments and research that man was dying too young either through thoughtlessness or ignorance. He also discovered that old age could be combated successfully by a certain mode of living and the use of a pure tonic stimulant which is necessary to keep the tissues young and the entire system in a normal healthy condition similar to that of a person in good health at 25 years of age.

Death and premature old age come from different causes but mostly all start from a deranged stomach and imperfect digestion, resulting in constipation and fermentation in the larger intestines and the formation of putrefactive bacteria or old age germs which poison the blood and cause premature death.

HOW TO LIVE LONG

When a dose of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is taken at mealtime it stimulates the mucous surfaces and little glands of the stomach to a healthy action, thereby improving the digestion and assimilation of the food and giving to the body its full proportion of pure nourishment. With perfect digestion no fermentation will take place and no death germs can be generated. This is the secret of success of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in prolonging life.

Professor Elie Metchnikoff, the eminent Russian scientist who has spent his life in scientific study of the human body, agrees with the scientist who discovered Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey that old age is a disease and may be overcome.

Dr. Lyman Beecher Sperry, who spoke on the science of life before the Y. M. C. A. of Chicago, said that man should live to be 150 years of age, possessed of all his faculties and useful.

Professor Fisher of Yale has arrived at the same conclusion, 50 years after this discovery was made by the founder of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey nourishes the vitality no matter how weak it may have become. It gives health and power to the body, brain, nerve and muscle, it keeps the old feeling young and vigorous—the young strong.

The fact that a person can live to be over 100 years old in the enjoyment of strength and health has been proven by many of our physicians and scientists, all of whom, either in their practice as doctors or by actual use, can testify to the life prolonging, health-giving powers of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

102 YEARS OLD, PROUD OF STRENGTH

"I wish to say that I was 102 years old July 7th, 1909, and proud to say that I am still enjoying good health, due the use of your great tonic stimulant.

"I can cheerfully recommend Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey to all old, weak and infirm people, as a fine appetizer and strength builder."—Thus said Mr. David Nee, of Fort Atkinson, Wis., in a late interview.

AS LONG AS THE LORD LETS ME LIVE I WILL PRAISE DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY

In a recent interview, Mrs. Mercy Woodworth of Bowdoinham, Me., says: "I was 93 years old Oct. 24th, 1909, and I can truthfully say that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as a tonic and stimulant for the age is unexcelled. It has done me more good than any other medicine, and I cannot say too much in praise of this great medicine.

"I can heartily recommend it to all old people who wish to retain their faculties and remain strong and vigorous.

"No one except those who have tried it can know what Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey will do to build up and strengthen the system.

"As long as the good Lord will let me live I will sing the praises of this great medicinal whiskey."

DEATH OF LENA MORGENTERN

ATHLETIC AND LEADER IN BERLIN'S PHILANTHROPY.

Began Her Sociological Work With the Formation of a League to Aid Poor School Children—Founder of Public Kitchens—Wrote Children's Stories.

Lena Morgentern, the most noted social reformer among German women, died in Berlin at the age of 80. She distinguished herself through a long life of activity, chiefly by the practical character of all her efforts. Her efforts on behalf of her own sex were directed rather to the amelioration of their present difficulties than their future political or intellectual emancipation. Frau Morgentern was born in Breslau on November 23, 1829, and was the daughter of Albert Bader, a merchant. After a course at the Silesian school in the Silesian capital and study at home, she became the wife of Theodor Morgentern, a physician, who was the mother of five children, nearly all of whom have won distinction as writers or in sociological work.

Frau Morgentern's first sociological interest resulted in the formation of a league to aid the poor schoolchildren of Breslau when she was only 18 years old. After her marriage she settled with her husband in Berlin and found time from the responsibilities of raising a family to interest herself in the formation of a league to improve the condition of working women. She founded also at this time the Berlin Kindergarten Association, of which she ultimately became the president.

The domestic distress that followed the war of 1866 led her to found the Berlin Public Kitchens, which proved to be the most notable of her economic achievements. These kitchens, which aimed to provide food for the poor, were immediately patronized by thousands, who proved how necessary their existence was and is to this day, when they still provide the means by which many of Berlin's poor inhabitants are able to live. The plan of these kitchens was followed in every large German city. She remained for three years in charge of these kitchens and then transferred her sympathies and executive abilities to the foundation of a society for the protection of illegitimate children. Infants were taken care of and properly nourished in a hospital or, if the poor mothers were able to maintain them, they were supplied with pure milk and other necessities. The organization of this charity was undertaken to prevent the great mortality existing in Berlin at that time among infants of this class.

The academy for the instruction of young women in useful arts, the Berlin Workingwomen's Union and the Berlin Housekeepers Union also came into existence through her activity. The great rise in the price of food after the Franco-German War caused the foundation of this last society, which is still active and issues a magazine devoted to its interests. Warehouses in which necessities were sold to the poor at less than market prices were organized on the cooperative plan and they were the models of the existing ones for the benefit of Government employees and others.

In addition to her accomplishments as a reformer in economic matters, Frau Morgentern was the authoress of popular children's stories, which she had written for the delight of her own youthful family. She also wrote various books connected with her philanthropic enterprises. She was beloved by a large circle of Germans. Although not all of the organizations she founded still exist in their original form, some are still among the most representative Berlin philanthropies. It was Lena Morgentern who first awakened in the Berliners of her generation the desire to improve by economic aid the condition of the less fortunate.

GEN. GREEN B. RAUM DEAD.

Ex-Commissioner of Pensions Dies in Chicago—His Military Record.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Gen. Green Berry Raum, ex-Commissioner of Pensions, died at his home here to-day after an illness of several weeks.

Gen. Raum was born in Golconda, Ill., in 1829. He was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1853 and was a member of the national Democratic convention supporting Douglas for President in 1860. In 1861 he entered the Union army as a major of the Fifty-sixth Illinois Volunteers and was promoted through successive grades to be Brigadier-General.

Gen. Raum served under Grant and Sherman and was severely wounded at Missionary Ridge. In the Atlanta campaign he held the railroad open as head of Sherman's rear guard. It was Gen. Raum who discovered and defeated Gen. Wheeler's raid and he too reinforced success at night and held it against Gen. Hood.

After participating in the march to the sea Gen. Raum had command under Gen. Hancock in Shenandoah Valley, which he held until the end of the war. From 1878 until 1883 he served in Congress and from 1883 until 1893 he was Commissioner of Pensions. He was the author of many magazine articles and two books, "The Existing Conflict" (1884) and a "History of Illinois Republicanism."

BURIAL OF REV. DR. HUGHES.

ALBANY, Dec. 12.—The Hughes funeral party left Albany on the 8:05 train this morning in a private car with the body of the Governor's father, the late Rev. David C. Hughes, D. D. Relatives from Kingston joined the party at Rhinecliff and others when the train reached New York. The interment was in Woodlawn Cemetery. The Rev. Thomas D. Anderson of Albany, who officiated at the funeral services in the Executive mansion yesterday, was one of the party.

The services at the grave were conducted by the Rev. R. S. MacArthur of New York city, the pastor of the church of which the Governor's father and mother were members. The Governor and his family returned to Albany in their private car attached to the train leaving New York at 2:55 P. M.

died at the Amsterdam City Hospital yesterday of his injuries. Miss Todd never fully regained consciousness. Her mother, Mrs. A. M. Todd of Arcola, Ill., was with her at the time of her death. Miss Todd was well known throughout the country as a missionary worker. She was at one time in charge of a girls' school in western China. In 1880 she began as a lecturer for the Board of Foreign Missions.

Dr. Irvin Neagus Frasse died in Monterey, Cal., on Thursday at the age of 41 years. He was the youngest son of the late William Henry and Sarah J. Frasse. Born in Jersey City, he went to Germany to take up languages and later studied medicine at Long Island Hospital, being graduated from the University of Pennsylvania. He took a post-graduate course in Edinburgh, Scotland. He practiced in Brooklyn for a number of years and then went to Jersey City, where he held the position of physician. He is survived by his wife and two sons.

Francis A. Darling, a well known resident of the East New York part of Brooklyn, died on Friday at his home, 123 Hale avenue, in his seventieth year. He had formerly been active in Republican politics. In early life he founded and edited the Farsetville Recorder. He was a civil war veteran and had served as aide de camp to Gen. Grant and Gen. Meade. He is survived by his wife and four daughters.

C. Herbert Burns, stenographer in Part I of the Flushing Supreme Court, died yesterday morning of pneumonia at his home, 88 Church street, Richmond, Hill, aged 52 years. Mr. Burns was admitted to the bar twenty-one years ago. He was well known throughout Queens county. He is survived by his wife and one daughter.

Mrs. Fannie Lewis Hart, an actress who played at one time with Ethel Barrymore and also appeared in "The Lion and the Mouse," died on Friday in the Mount Vernon Hospital at Mount Vernon. She had been ill since Thanksgiving. Mrs. Hart was about 60 years old. Her relatives live in Worcester, Mass.

C. B. Page Resigns as a District Leader.

Charles B. Page, a member of the Board of Elections, salary $5,000, has resigned the Republican leadership of the Thirtieth Assembly district. The new leader is to be Anthony P. Ludden, a young lawyer, who has been an extremely active worker in the Republican organization of the district. Mr. Page said yesterday that he had given up the leadership because his duties as an Elections Commissioner gave him no opportunity to do any vigorous work for the party in campaign times.

CONFAB OF NEW ESTIMATORS

IT WASN'T ABOUT HAAG'S PLACE, SO THEY ALL SAY.

But About What Mitchell Discovered in the Various Boroughs and How Conditions Can Be Bettered—Parsons Sees No Harm in Outwitting Gaynor.

All the members of the new Board of Estimate except Judge Gaynor and Comptroller-elect Prendergast met yesterday in the office of John Purroy Mitchell, the incoming President of the Board of Aldermen. Arrangements for the conference were made on Friday, and it was the belief of those who heard of the meeting that it was to be in the nature of a caucus to determine whether or not Joseph Haag, the present secretary of the board, and Nelson P. Lewis, the chief engineer of the board, shall be retained. Charles E. Gehring, the chairman of the executive committee of the board, organization, is gunning for Haag's place and has the backing of Chairman Parsons of the Republican county committee. It has also been reported that some of the members of the new board have candidates for Mr. Lewis's place.

At the close of yesterday's conference Mr. Mitchell and the others said that the meeting was not in any sense a caucus and that it had been called solely to allow Mr. Mitchell to describe the results of his investigations as Commissioner of Accounts of the boroughs of Manhattan, Brooklyn and The Bronx and to make suggestions which would lead to the better government of those boroughs. It was added that the names of Mr. Haag and Mr. Lewis had not once been mentioned.

There is no doubt that at the first meeting of the new Board of Estimate Mr. Gehring's name will be put forward, unless Mr. Parsons changes his mind. Similarly there is no doubt that any attempt to elect Mr. Gehring secretary would be defeated. Mayor-elect Gaynor has stated that he is opposed to ousting an experienced official as Mr. Haag and that he would regard any attempt to put out Mr. Haag as an effort to inject politics into the board.

It is understood that Mr. Mitchell, Mr. McAneny, the new Borough President of Manhattan, and President Greaser of Queens will vote with Mr. Gaynor at the organization meeting. This would mean that Mr. Gaynor would have nine out of the sixteen votes.

Mr. Parsons was in town for a few hours yesterday and said: "I am not urging Mr. Gehring or any one else for the place; in fact I don't even know if Mr. Gehring is a candidate for that particular office. I do know that the voters elected a fusion board and that that board is under no obligation to select a secretary to please the new Mayor."

Mr. Parsons went back to Washington last night. He will return to the city on Tuesday to remain over the Christmas holidays.

COLLINS WILL TRY AGAIN

To Get Back Highway Superintendentcy With Aghara Took Away.

John W. Brown, counsel for James G. Collins, former Superintendent of Highways, who was ousted by Borough President John F. Ahearn on January 1, 1904, declared yesterday that he would make application immediately in Part III of the Supreme Court before Justice Davis for a peremptory writ of mandamus to reinstate his client in office.

The application will be opposed by George F. Scannell, who was appointed in place of Collins. Scannell's attorneys, Basile & Marshall of 27 Wall street, will try to introduce charges accusing Collins of keeping the names of dead men on the payroll and using city funds for his "own ends. They say, for instance, that he retained $350 deposited by the employees of the department for badges."

Justice Chester E. McLaughlin of the Appellate Division ruled last June that these charges were irrelevant because Collins was removed without a hearing, but encouraged by the dissenting opinion of Justice Scott, who said that Collins was shown to be unfit to hold an office if Scannell's allegations were true, Scannell will endeavor again to have his charges presented.

Collins also is seeking to recover $26,282 from the city, the salary and the interest thereon of the Superintendent of Highways since 1904.

Scannell has worked thirteen months without pay, as the Comptroller has held the salary up pending a final decision as to whom it belongs.

ANOTHER BARNES MAN OUT.

Justus H. Davis Resigns as Chief of the Stock Transfer Bureau.

ALBANY, Dec. 12.—State Comptroller Clark Williams to-day announced that Justus H. Davis, one of William Barnes, Jr.'s close lieutenants, had resigned as chief of the stock transfer bureau, to take effect on January 1. In his place the Comptroller appointed A. K. Alford of New York City. Mr. Alford has been conducting the liquidation of the Lafayette Trust Company of Brooklyn as a special deputy superintendent of banks for the past eight months. He went into the Banking Department as an examiner in 1908, having been appointed by Mr. Williams when he was Superintendent of Banks.

Mr. Davis is the second Barnes appointee to get out of the Comptroller's office since Mr. Williams took charge. As soon as the new Comptroller took office he prepared for the removal of William H. Brainerd as secretary, and got his resignation to make room for Mr. Hudson, Mr. Williams's personal friend. Mr. Brainerd had been managing editor of Mr. Barnes's newspaper and took the place in the Comptroller's office at Mr. Barnes's request.

BOY KILLS PLAYMATE.

Says Rifle Went Off Accidentally While They Were Practising.

David Hopkins, 11 years old, of 137 Levitt avenue, Flushing, died in the Flushing Hospital last night of a bullet wound in the abdomen as the result of what is said to have been the accidental discharge of a Flobert rifle in the hands of Lawrence King, 15 years old, of 38 Levitt avenue.

According to the story told to the police by Lawrence King, he and the Hopkins boy went into his yard to practise with the rifle. While he was handling the weapon it went off accidentally. Young King was arrested and was committed by Magistrate Fitch to the care of the Children's society in Brooklyn. He will be straigned to-day in the Flushing police court.
